

Brand new look... same great performance!

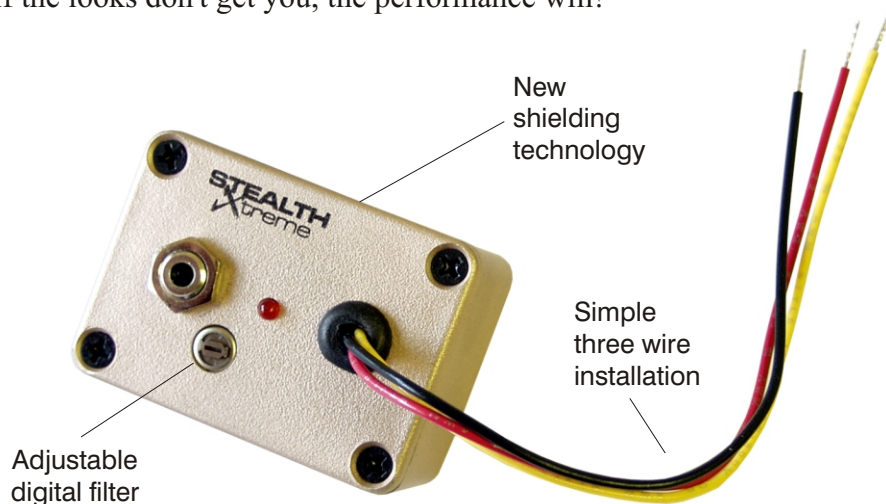

The Stealth IRTarget has been our most popular infrared target since it was first introduced. By breaking the electronic circuitry and the infrared detector into two separate modules, installers are able to create IR systems that are virtually invisible.

We're pleased to introduce the latest version of this old favorite. The new gold color isn't just for looks - it's part of the new shielding technology that will give you flawless performance, even in the harshest conditions. These targets now come standard with Dual Band and Plasma Proof technology making them suitable for any installation, in any environment.

The best part? All of these improvements are included in a new low price. Call today to order the new Stealth IRTarget - if the looks don't get you, the performance will!
